

TABLE OF CONTENTS

FOREWORD AND DEDICATION	ix
CONTRIBUTORS	xiii

PART I: GENERAL THEORETICAL PERSPECTIVES

1 Introduction to and overview of constitutionalism and democratic governance in Africa

Morris Kiwinda Mbondenyi and Tom Ojienda

1	Introduction	3
2	Overview of the book	6
2.1	General theoretical perspectives	6
2.2	Perspectives on constitutionalism, constitution-making and constitutional reforms in Africa	7
2.3	Perspectives on democratic governance in Africa	11

PART II: PERSPECTIVES ON CONSTITUTIONALISM, CONSTITUTION-MAKING AND CONSTITUTIONAL REFORMS

2 Tanzania's experience with constitutionalism, constitution-making and constitutional reforms

Benedict Maige Nchalla

1	Introduction	15
2	Tanzania: An overview of the political system	17
3	Conceptualisation	19
3.1	Constitution	19
3.2	Constitutionalism	21
3.3	Constitutional reform versus constitution-making	23
4	Constitution-making vis à vis constitutionalism in Tanzania: How far?	24
5	Constitution-making in Tanzania: A glimpse of the historical backdrop	26
5.1	Independence Constitution of 1961	26
5.2	Republican Constitution of 1962	27
5.3	Union between Tanganyika and Zanzibar of 1964	28
5.4	Constitution of the United Republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar of 1964	31
5.5	Interim Constitution of Tanzania of 1965	31
5.6	Constitution of the United Republic of Tanzania of 1977	33
6	Administration of justice as regards constitutionalism in Tanzania: A glance	35
7	Constitution reform: Is there a choice not to change the 1977 Grundnorm?	41
8	Features of an effectual and inclusive constitutional reform process	42

9	A new (legitimate) constitution in Tanzania: A people's appeal	44
10	The constitutional review Act 2011: A knock at the door	47
11	Conclusion	51

3

From the 'TPLF Constitution' to the 'Constitution of the people of Ethiopia': Constitutionalism and proposals for constitutional reform

Adem Kassie Abebe

1	Introduction: The genesis of constitutionalisation in Ethiopia	51
2	The making of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia (FDRE) Constitution: Its inclusiveness and some implications	54
3	Constitutionalism: Constitutional principles and compliance	57
3.1	Decentralisation	58
3.2	Sovereignty of the nations, nationalities and peoples (ethnic groups)	60
3.3	Human and democratic rights	62
3.4	Transparent and accountable government	67
3.5	Separation of state and religion	69
4	Major factors that have hampered constitutionalism and constitutional development	70
4.1	Increasing authoritarianism and the party-state conflation	71
4.2	Lack of independent and reliable constitutional adjudication system	74
5	Proposals for a possible constitutional reform agenda	79
5.1	Parliamentary versus presidential form of government	80
5.2	The first-past-the-post electoral system	81
5.3	Term limits on the position of the Prime Minister	81
5.4	Changing the constitutional adjudication system	83
5.5	Public ownership of land	83
5.6	Abolishing or empowering the Office of the President?	84
6	Concluding remarks	85

4

Constitution-making in Eritrea

Simon M Weldehaimanot

1	Introduction: Higher law and fine-tuning	89
2	Contestation in Eritrea: Amendment against new constitution-making	91
3	Abrogation of the 1952 Constitution and the notion of a higher law	94
3.1	The 1952 Constitution on amendments	94
3.2	Amendments sought and their legality	96
3.3	The federation: a delicate balance	100
3.4	Lack of arbiter in the constitutional design	102
4	The trashing of the 1997 Constitution	104

4.1	The eagerness to write yet a new constitution	107
4.2	Transition and the permanent constitution under the Accord	108
4.3	Distinction between adopting and amending a constitution	109
4.4	Opposition politicians and living with an independent judiciary	112
5	Conclusion	114

5

Constitutionalism and constitutional reforms in Ghana

Kofi Quashigah

1	Introduction	115
2	The period between independence and the eve of the 1992 Constitution	115
2.1	The search for an acceptable executive system	115
2.2	Protection of fundamental human rights and freedoms	118
2.3	The 1969 constitutional period	121
2.4	The incidence of military coups d'etat	123
2.5	The 1979 Constitution	125
3	The 1992 Constitution	128
3.1	Supremacy of the Constitution	126
3.2	The guarantee of public elections	129
3.3	Human rights and fundamental freedoms	129
3.4	The judiciary under the 1992 Constitution	129
3.5	The legislature	130
4	Proposed reform of the 1992 Constitution	131
5	Conclusion	134

6

The dawn of constitutionalism in Nigeria

Diala Anthony Chima

1	Introduction	135
2	Constitution-making and review in Nigeria: 1960 – 1999	136
2.1	The 1960 Independence Constitution	137
2.2	The 1963 Republican Constitution	139
2.3	Military rule: 1966 – 1999	141
2.4	The 1979 Constitution	144
2.5	The 1999 Constitution	153
3	The legitimacy of the 1999 Constitution	157
4	Conclusion	160

7

A Federal Constitution devoid of constitutionalism: The case of Cameroon

Chofor Che Christian Aimé

1	Introduction	163
2	The colonial history of Cameroon from 1884 to 1960	163
2.1	Introduction	163
2.2	Cameroon under German colonial rule	164
2.3	Cameroon under British and French colonial rule	165

2.4	The independence and reunification of Cameroon	170
3	An analysis of constitutionalism under the 1961, 1972 and 1996 Constitutions of Cameroon	172
3.1	The 1961 Federal Constitution	172
3.2	The 1972 Constitution	178
3.3	The 1996 Constitution	182
4	Towards effecting constitutionalism in Cameroon	188

8

Pre-independence constitutions, participatory constitution-making and constitutionalism in Africa: The case of Botswana

Bonolo Ramadi Dinokopila

1	Introduction	191
2	The history and making of the Constitution of Botswana	192
2.1	Constitutional review: The Lobatse conference	196
2.2	Second round of constitutional talks: The London conference	199
2.3	Botswana's 1966 Republican Constitution	202
3	Understanding Botswana's constitution-making process and its impact on constitutionalism	206
4	Post-independence: Calls for a constitutional review take centre stage	212
5	Conclusion	215

9

Popular involvement and constitution-making: The struggle towards constitutionalism in Malawi

Mwiza Jo Nkhata

1	Introductory remarks	219
2	Of constitutions and constitution-making	220
2.1	Making a 'perfect' constitution	222
3	The crafting of constitutions in Malawi	229
3.1	The 1964 Constitution	229
3.2	The 1966 Constitution	230
3.3	The 1994 Constitution	232
4	Popular involvement and constitution-making in Malawi: Lessons from the Malawian experience	237
5	Constitution-making and constitutionalism in Malawi	239
6	Final remarks	241

PART III: PERSPECTIVES ON DEMOCRATIC GOVERNANCE

10

Between presidentialism and a human rights approach to constitutionalism: Twenty years of practice and the dilemma of revising the 1990 Constitution of Benin

Horace Sègnonna Adjolohoun

1	Introduction	245
2	From constitutional instability to an African Charter-based Constitution	247

3	Main features of the 1990 Constitution	249
3.1	Fundamental principles of the Constitution	250
3.2	Fundamental rights' protection in Benin's Constitution of 1990	252
4	Separation and distribution of powers	255
4.1	Strong presidential Executive: 'Presidentialism'?	256
4.2	The Parliament	257
4.3	Judicial 'power' versus judicial 'authority'	261
5	Challenges brought by the Constitution in action	263
5.1	Blurring boundaries to separation of powers: Executive's supremacy	263
5.2	Development and interpretation of the Constitution	270
6	Dilemmas of whether, when, what and how to revise	280
6.1	'Do not touch my Constitution': Opportunistic or progressive revision?	280
6.2	Stronger Executive for socio-economic development? Dilemmas of a revision	284
7	Conclusion	288

11

From military rule and no party state to multi-partism in Uganda

Christopher Mbazira

1	Introduction	291
2	The history of political parties in Uganda	292
2.1	Pre-independent Uganda	292
3	The no-party movement state	295
4	Confronting the irresistible winds of change	300
4.1	Multi-party politics after the lifting of the ban	306
4.2	The lack of political will	306
5	Conclusion	313

12

Constitutional governance, democratisation and military legacies in post-independence Nigeria

Dejo Olowu

1	Introduction	315
2	Nigeria: A panoramic overview	316
3	Governance, constitutionalism, and democratisation: Reflections on the African scenario	318
4	Nigeria's evolutionary processes in constitutional governance and democratisation: The military dimension	322
5	Consolidating constitutional governance through the democratic process in Nigeria: Facing the future	331
6	Conclusion	335

13

From military rule to constitutional government: The case of Nigeria

Ademola Oluborode Jegede

1	Introduction	337
---	--------------	-----

2	Military rule in Nigeria: Heritage of stigmatised features	339
2.1	Tainted separation of powers	339
2.2	Eroded devolution of powers	341
2.3	Poor human rights record	342
3	Constitutional culture post-1999: From stigmas to what?	345
3.1	Separation of powers	346
3.2	Devolution of power	350
3.3	Human rights compliance	351
4	The future of constitutional government	353
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	355